The introductory poom is entitled "The Poet's Pilgrimage, and occupies several pages. Among other major poems are "The Courteship of Death" and "Modern Writers and Reviewers" Among the lyrics, two of especial note are "The Passing Line of Grey" and "Virginia Salutamus," the latter cummemorating the christening of the battleship Virginia. The poet, throughout, shows a facile fancy and a wealth of imagination, investing his verses with much tenderness and beauty of expression. The book is for sale in Richmond by Miller and Rhoads.

Christmas Magazines.

The Nevember Outlook contains a most corelient article on The Jamestown Commemoration, 1661-1961, by Mrs. Kate Langley Bosher, of Helmond. Mrs. Bosher's article is of especial value, because she explains the motives of the people of Virsinia. In undertaking the exposition, and gives the reason why they "wished the celebration of so manuficent an event as the birth of the American nation to possess those features which would distinguish it from all other expositions, and emphasize the historical, educational and special sides of the occasion, rather than the commercial and industrial demonstrated as the latter have already been again and again, for more magnificently than Virginia could have to do. han Virginta co

The November number of The Metrepolitan Magazine is an ideal one for the lengthening evenings of the late fall. It is a number for the library or the chimney corner, and you will find it the best literary company you can take to offber place. The lending article is a fascinating one by Marvin Dana, on "The Days of the Buccaneers." It is full of exciting tales of piracy. Gerhardt Bradt contributes a tremendously interesting article on "The Great Northwest." which every American should know in these days, and following it is one on "Our Salmon Fisheries, is Great Economic Resource," by Katherine L. Smith, which will be of interest to all housekeepers, as explaining the hard work which makes it possible to keep aalmon on the pantry shelves at at. "Caricature and Max Beerbohm," by Benjamin De Caseeres, is an amusing article, and is illustrated with the beat examples of Beerbohm's work.

Five Negroes Drowned.

Five Negroes Drowned, (Special to The Times Dispairs)
SPENCER, N. C., Nevember 10 - Vive negroes were drowned in the Yadkin River, about three miles north of Spencer, late last night. Their names follow: Eve Sears, Carrie Sears, Roberts Sears, Emery Sears and Jack Ratis.

All were lemants of a farm at Hanner's Ferry, where was held a con-shocking last night and all got drink. After the frolic the four Sears, darkies, and Jack Ratis started across the river. The cance in which they were crossing the stream capsized, and all were lost in twenty feet of water.

Jamestown Exposition Notes. The numerous side trips that may be taken from the Jamestown Exposition with little loss of time from exposition sight-seeing will add greatly to the pleasure of spending a vacation at Jamestown in E67. The historic points within a few minutes of the grounds are too interesting to be missed. Fast small bests will put these places within easy reach.

The management of the Jamestown Exposition hopes to be able to show how alcohol may be produced most cheaply, and what method may be used in its production so that the farmer may be instructed in its manufacture, for the whole world is looking to denatured absolutionize economic conditions dependent upon heat, fuel and power. A cheap method of making this product may increase the value of an acre of corn to 80 or more.

There will be 154.600 square feet of floor space in the machinery and transporta-tion palace at the Jamestown Exposition.

Hereditary Irascibility.

Hereditary Irascibility.

Herbert Rismarck had none of his father's bright wit in conversation, but had his overbearing temper and his mother's violent irascibility. She had the disposition of the Frankish woman as exemplified in Fredegonda, but held in check by modern conditions Rismarck 't anger was as terrible as a ferocious mastiff. She, far from restraining him, kept on saying: 'Good dog: tas-s-as. Go at him (or at her); good dog: tas-s-as. Go at him (or at her); good dog: tas-s-as, or tantamount words. The mastiff that lay before the surface in Bismarck grew more and more infuriated, especially if the evening before he had esten and drunk copiously. With these parents, Herbert, Jane and Bill Bismarck could not be expected to have courteous manners. Herbert, who was no stranger in Paris, and whom the fond father hoped one day to send there as ambassador, was bulky, sullen, and of a complexion that revealed an angry state of the bloed. Gambetta said of him: 'He reminds me of a limb of the law hardened to the work of laying on executions—in short, of a low class bailiff (recors)."—London Truth.
